The manner in which this embargo has been enforced is extremely simple. It seems that the Taoutai of the Island, who further imprisonment. resides at Taiwanfoo, sold the exclusive right to trade in Campbor every year to a Company of Cantonese, and that large sums were thus made both by the Taoutai and the monopolists. The latter, who were mided by the Taoutai and his soldiers, forced the producers to take their Camphor to recognise stations, and took the strongest measures to prevent their selling it to foreigners. The produce collected in this manner found its way to Banca, a town about twel-s miles up the Tamsui River, where a market was established, in which foreigners were nominally allowed to trade; but here it seems a piece of underhanded action, such as those by which the Chinese so frequently succeed giving the shadows and keeping back the at which the Campbor was offered were so high as to preclude foreigners from entering the market with any chance of making a profit upon shipments to Hongkong. The end desired was thus completely attained. The monopolists having then put down foreign competition, started an agency Hongkong, and being in possession of all the Campber produced, they took care to ship only limited quantities, and so raised the price to three times its original cost. This system, which amounted to nothing less Dock Company, and fined 20s, in default, fourthen a shameful piece of oppression, was very lucrative to the Mandarins, to the monopolists, to the soldiers in their pay, but ruinous to the producers. The latter consequently endeavoured to free themselves from this injustice; and took steps to induce Prayer. foreigners to buy the produce direct from them, which with the aid of some of the country people was done. The foreign purchasers who had to convey their produce. down from the interior were frequently molested by the mandarin soldiers, and many of the natives found aiding them were taken up. put into prison, beaten, and in some cases even beheaded. This system was backed up by Mr. Grecony, H.B.M. Copsul, who by subject will doubtless to generally endorsed: what arguments it is difficult to conceiveheld that the monopolists had the right to interfere with the foreign trade. not only by preventing their purchasing kong as returns, and underselling foreigners, which they were able to do in consequence of the enormous profits made on the Cam-

The monopolists and the Taoutai were, however. so much enraged at losing their squeezes, that they went so far as to maltreat foreigners. and to threaten the life of Mr. Consul Gisson. This resulted in the Amping Fort being taken by Lieut Gunnon, and the final sottlement of the dispute ; as finding that coercive measures were useless, the Taoutai from that time gave up every idea of re-establishing the monopoly. As already noticed, an attempt has recently been made to re-establish the old state of affairs, and it appears that, trate, to four months imprisonment, notwithstanding all that has taken place, Mr. Consul GREGORY is disposed to uphold the tein, printer to the Daily News," to lend him monopolists, and there seems to be no doubt | Tls. 1,0 0, in pretext that he wanted to get had that his having expressed such an opinion an order for Gray Bhirtings, which he is the chief reason why the Chinese have had the temerity to attempt to re-establish money was used to obtain possession of an order the embargo. In the face of the Trenty for four chests opium, and was not repaid to etipulations that foreigners shall be permitted to bring goods down from the interior of the country on the payment of the stipulated Transit Dues, and in face of the fact that by the French Treaty, which on the most favoured nation principle applies to other nations, it is expressly stipulated that there shall be no coalitions in trade to the detriment of the foreign purchasor, it is certainly to be greatly regretted that this question, which had been entirely settled, should be revived, and it seems unaccountable that the present Consul could not maintain the ground which had been gained and narrowly researcd from being frozen to with much difficulty by his predecessor, Consul GREGORY, it sppears, was acting in accordance with the views of Sir Burnerper Alcock, who for reasons best known to himself seems bent upon doing his utmost Messrs. TRUBNER & Co., Paternoster Row, to cause the trade at Formosa to be put a stop to. By last accounts from home, it appears that the withdrawal of the consulates has not yet been finally decided upon; and it "may be sincerely hoped that when the true nature of the obstructions Mr. L. The text of General Butler's speech of the 23rd of November, which has reached England was even franker than we imagined.
